German Proposal Almost to Allied Demands

GERMANY OFFERS TO COMPROMISE; NOTE NOT RECEIVED

COUNTER PROPOSALS ON REPARATION DEMANDS DELAYED.

SENT TO HARDING

Willing to Pay 200 Billion Gold Marks, Allies Asked 226.

Washington.—There has been an unexplained delay in the transmission from Berlin of the German counter proposals on reparations which were handed Sunday night to American commissioner Dredel at the American capital. In evidence of its receipt administration officials declined to comment on its reported contents.

GERMANY OFFERS TO PAY 200 BILLION GOLD MARKS

Berlin.—The payment by Germany of 200 billion gold marks for reparations is, roughly, the proposal submitted by Germany for transmission to the allies, according to sources close to the government. The allies under the decision reached in Paris in January, demanded that Germany pay 226,000,000,000 gold marks or approximately $56,500,000,000, the payments to be spread over a period of 42 years. The payments under the new offer will be spread over a period of from 3 to 42 years or less, according to Germany's economic recovery. Economic pledges in the way of goods and participation in German industries are offered as guarantees, it is stated.

Inclines to Allies' Demands.

The offer, it is indicated, inclines more toward the terms formulated by the allies at the Paris conference last winter, than to the offer made by Germany at the London conference, which the allies summarily rejected.

Germany's counter proposals, it was learned, refrain from proposing the assumption by Germany of the allied debts to the United States.

The Reichstag will not be given the text of the communication until Tuesday.

Keeps Note Public.

The German government is refraining from making public its note to the United States in order to give President Harding, it is explained, an opportunity to consider and make inquiries concerning it if he desires, before forwarding it to the allies.

The attempt of independent socialists and communists to force through the cabinet failed when other parties failed to join their attack.

BRITISH READY TO BACK FRANCE'S MILITARY PLAN.

London.—Premier Lloyd George stated in the House of Commons Monday afternoon that if the German reparations proposals which had not yet been received, proved unsatisfactory, Great Britain would support France in her proposals for the "West Phalanx" plan.

Unofficial advisers from Berlin declare Germany has offered a "liberal compromise" between the allied reparations demands and the German counter proposals.

Supreme Council to Meet Next Saturday.

Lyon, France.—The supreme council was called to meet next Saturday to discuss the new German proposals on reparations, and decide action to be taken on May 1.

ALLIES DEMAND THAT GOLD BE DEPOSITED

Paris.—The allied reparations commission sent a note to the German war bureau commission demanding that one billion goldmarks be deposited in the bank of France on or before April 30.

Coed Is Drowned As Canoe Upsets on Madison Lake

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison.—Esther M. Wepping, Lancaster, Wis., a sophomore in the course in commerce at the University of Wisconsin, was drowned in Lake Mendota late Sunday when the canoe in which she and Arthur Harwood, another student, were paddling, was overturned.

The accident occurred before 5 o'clock in the afternoon, but it was nearly 6:30 before the university authorities learned of the predicament of the students and sent the lifesaving crew to the scene. In the meantime the couple had been blown by the heavy wind nearly two miles off shore.

Three canoes which were near when the accident happened, at once managed to reach the boat which had overturned, and had pulled Miss Wepping, who was already overcome, into it. The canoes were then tied together and an attempt was made to reach the opposite shore, after two men and one of the girls in the party had swam ashore.

Water filled one of the canoes, struck head-on by the high waves, and all four of them overturned, throwing Miss Wepping into the lake again. L. Hansen, a sophomore, tried to hold the girl but lost his grip and she went down.

LEWROOT SEEKS MARINE ENGINEERS FARM INQUIRY TO STRIKE MAY 1

Wisconsin Senator Introduces Resolution for Commission of Agriculture.

Washington.—Creation of a joint commission of agriculture to investigate conditions affecting the farming industry and to suggest remedial legislation is proposed in a resolution introduced Monday by Senator Lewroot, republican, Wisconsin, and Representative Strong, republican, Kansas. The measure was presented at the request of associated farm organizations which met here last week.

The resolution said that unless the condition of agriculture was remedied the United States will in a few years be forced to import much of food necessary for its own inhabitants. It was added that producers of grain, livestock and cotton were threatened with ruin.

The president would be authorized to name the commission, which would report within 90 days on these questions:

The cause of the present condition of agriculture; comparative condition of industries other than agriculture; relation of prices of commodities other than agricultural products to such products; banking and financial resources and credits, especially affecting agricultural credits; and the marketing and transportation facilities of the country.

HAS HEAD CUT OFF IN HEROIC ATTEMPT TO SAVE MAN'S LIFE

MILLER, JANESVILLE ENGINEER INSTANTLY KILLED AT GREEN BAY.

FIREMAN CUT UP

Forced to Amputate Both Arms of Weesnick—Train on Runaway.

Making a desperate effort to save another man's life, Carl Miller, engineer on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, lost his life as the result of a railroad accident in Green Bay Saturday evening. H. Weesnick, fireman, the man Engineer Miller made the heroic effort to save, suffered severe injuries but his recovery is probable.

It happened the engineer and fireman were in the Green Bay station lunch room, the locomotive standing outside with the brakes applied.

Something started the engine. Both jumped from their seats in the lunch room and raced for the moving engine. Miller jumped for the steering board and climbed up into the cab as Fireman Weesnick leaped for the steps.

Both slipped off steps. Weesnick slipped and lost his grip. Miller turned around and unkindly of his own safety, clutched the clothing of the fireman.

Both were dragged down between the wheels. Engineer Miller fell in such a way that his head was cut off, death being instantaneous. Fireman Weesnick was thrown from a similar fate. The fireman fell in a position that the wheels mangled his right arm and left hand, which were amputated Sunday.

Physicians report him much improved but still in danger. The heroic effort of Engineer Miller is being spoken of by every railroad man in Wisconsin with praise, for the engineer made a noble attempt at rescuing the fireman while in a perilous position in the narrow cab way as the locomotive started gaining speed down a grade.

Born in Janesville. Carl Miller was born in this city 33 years ago and received his education here. He married a Janesville girl, Miss Anna McCarver, in 1910. He has been working with the railroad for the last 20 years and moved to Fond du Lac eight years ago where he and his wife have made their home since.

Carl's wife, a sister, Mrs. Grace Winchester, Detroit. They both work and live here Tuesday noon at 3:15 and will be taken immediately to the chapel at Oak Hill, where the services will be held, with Rev. Henry Williamson officiating. Interment will be made at Oak Hill. The injured fireman also resides in Fond du Lac.

O. L. Piper, former Janesville resident wanted on a warrant charging that he took a mortgaged automobile from Janesville to Minneapolis, has been located in that city. He will be brought here to answer the charges made by Emil Nitscher, of the Nitscher Implement company.

The Minneapolis detective who went to Piper's home in Janesville, found a line to his garden. The warrant for his arrest was issued here March 23, 1921. Piper will be brought to Janesville unless settlement is reached.

The defendant in the action at one time was employed at the Samsom plant in the inspection department, according to the authorities.

EFFORTS RENEWED TO SETTLE STRIKE OF BRITISH MINERS

London.—Renewed efforts to find a settlement of the dispute between the coal miners and the mine owners were made Monday morning when representatives of the owners and the miners met here in joint conference with representatives of the government.

An official report on the conference said the conference considered a statement by the owners containing a proposal for a durable scheme providing that the coal industry should be run on its ability to pay and that the country be divided into agreed areas.

Standard wages for the men would be fixed, as against standard profits for the owners, under the proposal the standard of wages being a first charge on the industry. The surplus revenue of an area would be divided between the owners and the men.

DRIVERLESS CAR MAKES WILD DASH

Dr. Charles Sutherland had his big touring car overturned and it came out of the paint shop, spick and span Saturday. The car was real proud of itself.

The Janesville physician drove up in front of his home on South Division street, Sunday. Going to the curb he tightened the brakes and went inside of his home to call the family out for a spin.

The automobile, all glossy, had another notion. It wanted to take a ride without human guidance. The brakes failed to hold and the car slipped down the steep grade on Division street. First the machine bumped into a hitching post, knocking over the harmless although unsightly ornament and continued its dash down the hill six rods to smash into a stone block. There the machine stopped. About $200 damage was caused to the machine. The heavy stone horse-block was moved about a foot.

KNOX PEACE PLAN GOES TO SENATE FOR DEBATE ON FLOOR

RESOLUTION REPORTED FAVORABLY BY COMMITTEE, 9-2.

DEMS OPPOSE

To Carry on Fight When Lodge Calls Measure Up Tuesday.

Washington.—The Knox peace resolution was reported favorably Monday by the senate foreign relations committee. A few of the democratic committee members voted in opposition and indicated they would carry their fight to the senate floor.

Chairman Lodge said he planned to call the resolution up Tuesday for debate.

The vote on the measure was 9 to 2, all the republicans supporting it and the two democrats present—Poinsette and Pittman—voting in opposition. Other democrats who were present were given the privilege of recording themselves with the opposition later.

Minor Changes Made. Minor changes only were made in the resolution as revised by Senator Knox of Pennsylvania. Its author, the principal change was to amplify the section to end the state of war with the Central and South American nations, making it similar to the provision to end the status of war with the German imperial government.

Timely for Debate. Senator Underwood of Alabama, democratic leader, asked if "reasonable" time would be allowed for debate and Senator Lodge gave such assurance adding that he hoped a vote would be reached quickly. Senator Underwood replied that there was no disposition on the democratic side to declare a vote, but he and other democratic senators wished to discuss the resolution.

Two joint resolutions terminating the state of war between the United States and Germany and between the United States and Austria were introduced by Chairman of the Committee of foreign affairs committee.

LA FOLLETTE BEGS U. S. TO RECOGNIZE IRISH REPUBLIC

WISCONSIN SENATOR PLEADS FOR CAUSE OF ISLAND'S FREEDOM.

PRAISES VALERA

Says America Will Some Day Pay Tribute to Ireland's President.

Washington.—The cause of Ireland was pleaded in the senate Monday by Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, who in a prepared address advocated his resolution proposing recognition of the "Irish Republic."

Ireland is today a test of real Americanism, he said. "Those who today most actively oppose recognition of the independence of Ireland in her struggle for freedom from Great Britain are of the same flesh and blood as the Tories of 1775. Those who today favor recognition by the United States of Irish independence stand upon the great fundamental principle of human liberty which were written into the declaration of independence."

Challenges Freedom. "I believe that Ireland should be free as free and independent as any nation on the globe," he told the senate.

"I believe she should be as independent and have as complete dominion over her own destiny as the United States, and by the same right—the inherent right of every nation to a government deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed."

"I do so further than that, I believe this country without violating any of the usages of international law, without giving any other nation cause for ill will, should do everything within its power consistent with its own principles and traditional policy, to encourage the recognition of Ireland as a free and independent republic."

Treat All Nations Same. "I stand for this country doing no more for Ireland than we have done for other small nations of the world, but I stand for this government recognizing them."

"I am opposed to those who would have us abandon that traditional policy and make us by cowardly silence, accomplices of the oppressors of Ireland."

The Wisconsin senator referred to last week's visit of President Harding in New York to unveil the statue of Simon Bolivar and said that he would not return to serve his country until he had seen the statue of Bolivar.

"I am not necessary to wait a hundred years until an American president will unveil with all fitting ceremony and with all appropriate honors the statue of Bolivar, the first president of the Irish Republic."

Overruled by British. "Is it possible," he inquired, "that the American nation has become so corrupted by the example of imperialism and is so overawed by the splendor and power of the British empire that it is unable to recognize her rights to oppress a nation which she holds only by superior military force?"

Senator La Follette predicted that "this congress would not close without a vote upon the issue of recognition of the Irish Republic."

Chicago.—With the time limit for surrender of 47 I. W. W.'s, convicted for obstructing this country in war work, expiring at midnight Monday night, department of justice officials are preparing to take immediate steps to round up any of the men who do not report either to the Leavenworth penitentiary or to local federal officials.

Any man not surrendering by midnight will be looked on as fugitives and their immediate arrest ordered, Patrick J. Brennan, local chief of the department of justice, declared.

No word has been received from "Big Bill" Haywood, I. W. W. chief, who is believed to have gone to Russia, but his associates were confident that he would surrender before his sentence of from 5 to 20 years.

Of the 47 men, the department of justice knows the whereabouts of about 40. Mr. Brennan said.

More than a dozen of the convicted men were to meet their attorney, Otto Christensen, late Monday and formally give themselves up to the United States marshal.

They held a farewell party Sunday night at I. W. W. headquarters at which plans for a propaganda campaign for their release were discussed.

Hemmens, respectively, on a daily non-stop freight car on each of their lines to Chicago and St. Paul. This was decided at a conference Saturday with L. O. Holman, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The plan, which the car will make up at Beloit, firms in that city having less than carload lots being invited to participate in the arrangement. The car will be completed here and will not make a pit until it arrives at its destination.

In this manner, it is hoped to establish 2 1/2 to 3 day service on package freight. In the event that more than one carload is available, an extra car would be provided.

This is a part of the big plan of the Gazette to make it possible for every person within the trade territory of Janesville to get the paper the same day in good time and make another stride in the progress of the Gazette.

RED WINE PARTY, RECKLESS DRIVING, CHAUFFEUR KILLED

MAXON, WELL KNOWN TENNIS STAR, CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER.

GOES TO GREEN BAY

Prisoner at Liberty Under $2,500 Bail Pending Appeal.

Milwaukee.—Glenway Maxon, Jr., well known tennis player and son of a prominent Milwaukee family, whose automobile killed Frank Fehlinger, chauffeur, on the night of December 22, following a red wine party in which Maxon participated, was found guilty of first degree manslaughter by Judge A. H. Fox, Wisconsin, in municipal court Monday, and was sentenced to five years at the Green Bay reformatory.

The sentence is the minimum which may be imposed for first degree manslaughter.

Appeal to Supreme Court. In announcing the verdict, Judge Fox said that the question of law raised by Maxon in the case should be passed on by the supreme court and that, pending the appeal which will be taken, will have his liberty under $2,500 bail.

Judge Fox said that the verdict showed that Maxon was driving 35 miles an hour, which was an excessive speed on such a night, that Maxon was undoubtedly intoxicated, and that he was guilty of reckless driving.

Attorney Clinton A. DeWitt. Attorney C. A. Unbrink, representing Maxon, maintained that under the law and assuming that the evidence warranted, the court could return a verdict of fourth degree manslaughter only. District Attorney Zabel argued that Maxon was committing a misdemeanor at the time Fehlinger was killed and that first degree manslaughter was the proper verdict.

STEAMSHOVEL BEARS DOWN ON HOME OF $500,000 HEIRS

New York.—A steam shovel used in excavating the site of a proposed modern apartment building, Monday was driving its nose toward a dilapidated one room shack on Washington heights where reside $1-year-old Martin M. Molenaar, his son and daughter, claimants of $500,000—worth of the vast and thickly settled acreage to be sold from their door steps.

These hundreds of acres were included in the estate of M. Molenaar, who died in 1912 leaving a will which bequeathed the land to three sons and a daughter. Claiming disposition of these lands by his grandfather's heirs was contrary to the will, Mr. Molenaar and his children have been there eight years, hoping they would prove their title rights. A supreme court decision blasted the hopes of the trio, but still they remained. Ordered to move, they refused. And now each plunging of the steam shovel's nose brings nearer the closing hour of the Molenaar's regime.

CITY TO PROTEST
BILL ON UTILITIESCity Attorney Will Attend
Hearing on Measure Affecting Railroad Commission.

Janesville's protest against a bill to abolish the railroad commission and law now being for fixing rates of public utilities will be entered by City Attorney Roger C. Cunningham when it comes up for hearing before an assembly committee. The date of the hearing has been set for 2 p. m. Tuesday and the council has instructed Mr. Cunningham to attend.

The bill provides for the change in name of the railroad commission to "Public Service Commission", removes the present commissioners and gives the governor an opportunity to appoint all three members of the new commission. By its guarantee of a 5 per cent return, the bill, it is claimed, would make it impossible for the commission to reduce rates for the public.

Three it is said. The bill was introduced by the committee on public utilities. The bill was introduced by the committee on public utilities. The bill was introduced by the committee on public utilities.

Going on to explain how the bill would make it impossible to get reduced rates in Wisconsin cities, several members of the committee said:

"A study of this section reveals the following provisions:

"1. The basis of rate making is changed from the actual value of the property to the capital invested. The rates must yield a reasonable return not only upon physical value of the property used but upon the money invested, even though a large portion of the money may have been wasted, unwisely invested, or spent in extravagant purchase prices.

"2. It guarantees a continuous return of 5 per cent on the value of the property, or the prevailing rates of interest, the service rendered, or any other consideration.

"3. From earnings in excess of 5 per cent, utilities would be permitted to accumulate a 'special reserve fund' as a margin of safety, which can be used to pay for any emergency bonds or may be invested in the utilities' own property or in other corporations.

"4. When the amount in this fund has reached a point at which the expenses of the commission constitute a 'margin of safety', then the rates of such utility may be either lowered or raised as may be deemed just and equitable under the conditions.

RIDGWAY'S AUTO
SAFETY BILL O. K.'DSenate Passes Measure to Safeguard Owners Against Theft.

Madison—Safe-guard against automobile thefts is provided in a bill by Senator E. T. Ridgway passed by the senate Monday morning. Each automobile owner will be required to carry a certificate of ownership, issued by the secretary of state which must be presented before he can purchase supplies or store his machine. If the measure is accepted by the assembly and becomes law.

The bill provides further that certified copies of automobile owners be furnished municipal and county officials each month.

The senate concurred in an assembly bill requiring that all street cars have appliances for removing snow and rain from the window in front of motormen. Its purpose is to prevent accidents which might result from obstructed view of the motorman operating the car.

The proposed constitutional amendment permitting sheriffs to succeed themselves at election, which has already been passed by the 1919 legislature, entered on the final stage of its legislative course before being presented to the people for their approval, when it was sent to a third reading by the senate.

No action was taken on a proposal of Assemblyman Prescott to limit fees of employment agencies to a maximum of $5. It would be taken up again at a session of the upper house is present.

"Lost" Sharon Boy
Found in Beloit

Sharon—Missing from his home here since last Monday when he left on a train for Harvard, 11, either Seavers 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Seavers was found Saturday in Beloit and was held by the police until the father reached Beloit. He was brought home Saturday.

He left home Monday without permission from his parents in company with Vernon Woods, 15, who became dissatisfied and tired of school. He was living with an uncle, Earl Lowell since the death of his parents in Beloit two years ago. No effort will be made, it is said to bring the boy back to Sharon.

HEAVY SHOWERS, HAIL, LIGHTNING DO LITTLE DAMAGE

Starting with hail the size of moth balls, old Japs Plutus incured in real "blue Monday" and caught many workers on their way to work in the morning with umbrellas or coats. The rain came down at such a slant that umbrellas offered little protection. It was of short duration but regular sheets of water began to pour again about 2 o'clock. The rain came down at such a slant that umbrellas offered little protection. It was of short duration but regular sheets of water began to pour again about 2 o'clock.

Reports from the southern part of the county show that it rained there practically all morning, being received cordially by the farmers. Indications are that the prediction of high water along the Rock river by L. C. Mead, local weather prognosticator, may prove to be correct within the next few days if the series of showers continues.

A blow case in the Fourth Ward was the only damage done to Janesville electric company wires Sunday.

Force of the water coming down East Milwaukee hill from the Rock river street in Rock River made a knobell, electrician, breaking the steering gear.

CLEAN UP EARLY
THIS WEEK, PLEASEAnnual Drive on Dirt Opens
With Appeal for City-Wide
Cooperation.

Emphasized by speeches in all the schools by high school seniors, the mulling out of special reminders, and the slipping of circulars into all packages delivered by retail stores, Janesville's annual cleanup week commenced Monday morning. Householders everywhere started tidying up backyards, alleys and cellars.

Calls for men to aid in the work were received at the Chamber of Commerce Monday. The supply of men seeking odd jobs, however, is greater than the demand. The Chamber announced that it will aid all cleaners get help if they will send in telephone orders.

In order not to duplicate efforts, the city will not start cleaning streets and alleys until near the end of the week. It is desired that all persons do their cleaning early so that the city street department will not be compelled to do double work. Tuesday the Boy Scouts start a campaign of four minute speeches in the theatres which they will repeat on Thursday. On Saturday and next Sunday, squads of scouts will tour the city in an inspection, reporting unclean places discovered.

SEVERAL MEN HELPED

One evening the Board of Directors of the bank spent much time talking over the business affairs of a certain man who had died, leaving his estate in the hands of the bank for settlement.

There were some big problems to be solved.

That is why all these men gave their time and attention to the work. The manager of the trust department was determined to have these problems settled wisely.

When you appoint the bank as your Executor, you get—not the services of one man, but the services of many.

It costs you nothing to talk with us about your own plans for the future. We make no charge at all until the actual work of settling an estate begins, and then our charges are passed upon by the courts. That guarantees just charges in all cases.

Think it over.

MUNICIPAL MORALS AND REPUTATION.

About a month ago there was an effort made to clean the spots from the coat of Milwaukee and wipe out the moral cussedness that had given the city a bad name from one end of the country to another. Moonshine, bootlegging, road houses, down town vice openly connived at, gambling any time anywhere, saloons proceeding with no reference to any laws that had closed them, liquor being sold openly over the bars—all these things had given the city of Milwaukee a black mark and its condition was notorious. It would be quite impossible to add to the notoriety of the city.

But the numerous trials, and sentences of men who had been prominent in the night life and who had achieved a place in the affairs far more important than they had deserved, called for a bitter denunciation of the whole procedure from the head of the Chamber of Commerce of Milwaukee "because all this publicity was giving Milwaukee a bad reputation." He inveighed against "long haired reformers" and anything that tended to make people elsewhere feel that Milwaukee was an immoral town.
The trouble with these critics is that they are not informed. It would be hard indeed to give Milwaukee a worse reputation than it has, whether justly or unjustly. Its low state of morals is common talk. It is known from one end of the state to another, and as far beyond as the reputation of the city could travel. There were many things common to all large cities but in Milwaukee there was a boldness and a care-free defiance of law that resulted in the summary discharge of police officials. There are several men in the Milwaukee House of Correction who are of the same opinion as the head of the Chamber of Commerce—that it has been bad for the city to put all this in the papers, and look them up in jail.
No "long haired reformers" or fanatics had a part in this. Whenever one wants to be extremely lenient he speaks about the "long haired reformer." About the only place the "long haired reformer" is found these days is in the degenerate meeting places of the parlor boys and high brow believers in any and all law. Moral cleanliness of a city is good economical cleanliness. Prohibition came about, not as the result of a moral wave or a moral determination, but because it was seen by the great mass of men that booze was leading to economic disaster. Once that became fixed as an accepted fact the saloon was doomed. That they have still existed and attempts have been made and men continue to defy laws is no fault of the law. It probably will continue in a measure just as vice will continue so long as man is man and woman is woman and greed and money are the measure of life and success.

These people with hair trigger nerves who are so hurt because the statement is made and borne out by the facts that there is vice and gambling and whiskey is sold or drunk illegally and charge that publication of the facts gives a locality a bad name, should first aid in establishing a condition that would make the "advertising" of which they complain impossible. But one scarcely hears of these persons with super delicate sensibilities aiding in that direction.
An effort backed by the governor, the police and the whole governmental system outside of the mayor and a few others is being made to "clean up" New York. No one hears that it is injuring that city. Perhaps this condition is based on the hypothesis that nothing can lower New York's moral reputation. That hypothesis may have been applied to Milwaukee.

The world owes the United States $15,000,000,000 and we cannot even get Yap.
THE "RHINE HORROR."
Additional evidence against the constantly reiterated German propaganda that outrages were committed by black troops quartered in the Rhine provinces by the French, comes from Hallett Alsop Borrower, of New York, who was an officer of the First division and has had close and intimate touch with the Moroccan troops. When the French first occupied the territory designated for them following the armistice, there were a few Senegalese troops sent to Germany. Investigation made by Gen. Allen of the American forces, failed utterly to show that there had ever been an outrage by these troops. They were long ago taken from Germany not because of anything they did but because of the climate which had a bad effect on these tropical soldiers. Other troops not white, in that section, are the Moroccans. These troops were superb fighters. Germany had an ally, Turkey and the Moroccan troops are of the same

HAVE MANNERS DECAYED?

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—The manners of Americans, and especially of the younger generation, are rapidly deteriorating, according to Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard, who is a sort of professional representative of the last century.
He protests against the informality of greetings, against the fact that men smoke in the presence of women, that boys and girls "touch, tap and shove" each other, and that they "talk and gesticulate" in a way which is "unbecomingly" and "unpleasantly" "things, events, processes and subjects" which the young men and women of his day never mentioned at all. "By this latter circumlocution," the learned doctor is trying to tell us, without making himself bluish, that men and women now frankly discuss matters of sex.
This point about the deterioration of our manners has been heard so often of late that the subject seems to require study. What are good manners and what purpose do they serve? Are our manners really deteriorating or merely changing?

After consulting a number of the greatest authorities, living and dead, on the subject, we are unable to answer these questions, but can pass on to the reader some of the information acquired and let him try to answer them for himself.

The scientists seem agreed that the manners of society are rooted to a great extent in fear, and the fear that individuals have for each other, and that the individual has for society as a whole. This point is emphasized by Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons, a notable American woman anthropologist. In support of this view it may be shown that manners have always been most formal and perfect where both these fears were well-grounded. In the South before the Civil War, for example, it was the custom for men to fight duels over small matters; sometimes mere discourtesies. The treatment of women was also a cause of bloodshed. At the same time, observers assure us that public opinion was there but manners of careless society were rampant.
Here was a dual world where the fear of man's words might cost a man his life, and the result was a code of manners of great formality and beauty. They were remarkably similar to the manners of Elizabethan England when every gentleman wore a sword and was always ready to skewer other gentlemen for impoliteness. It may also be pointed out that manners are now at their perfect in formal society, where each is wholly dependent for preference upon the favor of others rather than upon his own abilities.

Manners, then, are probably grounded partly in fear. But that is not all. "Most of our virtues are based on fear," according to the scientists. And whatever their origin, manners undoubtedly add ease and grace to life. They lubricate personal contacts, saving friction, and at the same time lending dignity to the social spectacle. It is natural that Dr. Eliot and his contemporaries should be so much of our life. They are in some respects a genuine loss.
At the same time, there is something gained. We are less formal with each other in part because we are less afraid of each other. Hence, if there is less of formal grace in our intercourse, there is more of spontaneity and genuineness. It is easier to "get at a man," to make a friend of him. It is also easier for men and women to get along with each other. Surely the frank discussion which takes place between them now-a-days are more conducive to a real understanding than the empty exchanges of rhetorical broadsides which took place in Victorian days, if we can believe the novelists.

The case seems to be, then, that the decay of formal manners has added to the spontaneity of human intercourse, and where natural good taste and good feeling prevail, it has probably not done much harm. On the other hand, it has undoubtedly freed free play to vulgarities and bad taste and feeling, and has vulgarized the social spectacle as a whole to deterioration. You may consider it a gain or a loss, as you choose, but in either case you may comfort yourself with the thought that it is inevitable. There will be no return to the days of formal courtesies and long gaited speeches. We have come to care more for directness and honesty than for grace and artificial beauty.

Beyond a doubt the decay of formal manners has made life more difficult for those who have strong feelings of irritation or resentment to conceal. Formal manners tend to conceal these things automatically. The proper speech and gestures are made from long habit while the inner man may be boiling. That good manners are sometimes a sort of heroism is pointed out by Nadai, an American writer, and an acute social observer. He notes the salient fact that pleasant manners are relatively easy for those who are happily adjusted to life and well contented, who encounter little opposition. But they are another matter for the man or woman who is cast for a fighting part in life, who is thrown into the struggle with nothing but his abilities and is forced to develop and assert them in the face of every kind of opposition. Such persons inevitably generate a certain amount of bitterness, which it is hard to keep out of speech and action. Again there are some to whom the conventions and customs of society seem pleasant and easy, and other whom they gall at almost every contact. In these, too, a restrained and pleasant manner may be little less than a heroism. In estimating the manners of an individual it is always well to take into account how much they represent of irritation or strong feeling held in leash.

Those who are not gifted with the best of taste, or who are frequently shaken by feelings that must be concealed may well study the teaching of Lord Chesterfield, who preached to his son a code of manners far too formal for modern use, but who went to the heart of the matter when he said that the acquirement of good manners was wholly a matter of attention. This is profoundly true. If you only watch the other fellow and listen to him, instead of trying always to assert yourself, you can easily see just what he expects of you. And to treat people as they justly expect of you, that is the far and best way of compromising your self-respect, as the best of manners.

Moslem religion as the Turks. Naturally one would think that there would be less objection on account of these men. During the war the German officers issued a "no prisoner" order in reference to the Moroccans. In retaliation the Moroccans took few prisoners—about the same number as the Marines of the U. S. at Belleau and other places after our men had discovered some of the atrocities put on their own wounded and captured.

Of excellent discipline and thorough soldiers, there has been no official complaint of the presence of these Moroccan troops on the Rhine. In fact none of the so-called "Rhine Horror" has the weight of official German sanction. Enemies of the United States, haters of her entrance into the war, draft dodgers and sympathizers, pacifists and madmen sentimentalists, a few capital-making members of the congress, and above all those German propagandists who were so busy prior and during the war in America to break down the task this nation confronted—these are the ones who talk and write and speak of the "Rhine Horror."

When you hear one of them you can put it down that they are not listening to a friend of the American republic but one of those miserable creatures who use this nation as a home to make it easily possible to attack its government at any and all times.

"Is the United States constitution safe?" asks the Boston Transcript in a head. (Well its safer with Bill Haywood gone to Russia.)

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE EVENING WELCOME.
There's a certain thrill of pleasure in a battle fought and won.
And it's good to hear men cheering for some splendid deed they've done.
There is real satisfaction when a business deal you've made.
And there's pride and joy in counting up the profit that it paid.
But the thrill that goes the deepest and is laden with delight,
Is the welcome of your own folks when you're getting home at night.

Our beyond the home is laughter of a certain sort, I know.
And it's good to have the friendship of the men who come and go.
It is good to win their prizes and it's fine to have them cheer.
But they cannot fill the places of the children waiting near.
And the sweetest satisfaction, when all else has faded,
Is the welcome of your own folks when you're getting home at night.

Just to have them glad to see you—that's the answer to it all.
Glad to see you coming homeward when the shades of evening fall.
Fond of you, whatever happens, proud to spend their lives with you.
Never forget your failures, pleased with everything you do.
Oh, I don't know how to say it, but there is no thrill that's quite
The equal of that welcome when you're getting home at night.

Who's Who Today

VALENTINE S. MCCLATCHY

The idea to prohibit Japanese immigration of every character was made recently before the House committee on immigration by Valentine Stuart McClatchy. McClatchy represented the Japanese Exclusion League of California. Four fundamental principles were submitted by him which he said had been endorsed not only by his own organization but by several western states and by numerous commercial and patriotic associations in California.

McClatchy, who is a newspaper man, was born in Sacramento in 1857. He received both his elementary and higher training in his native state, having been graduated from Santa Clara college in 1877. In 1883 he became editor of the Sacramento Bee and still holds that office. He was for some time secretary and general manager of the Pacific Associated Press and since 1910 has been a director of the Associated Press.

He is the author of several monographs and reports on food, reclamation in California and for five years was president of the state reclamation board in charge of the California portion of Sacramento river flood control. This involved the expenditure of $25,000,000.

AUTOROXOGRAPHY—V. LO, GRAXNY.

I want to say right here that father and I have no more use for yarning and spinning old women of either sex than we ever had. Still we do not hesitate to say that we hand it to grandma in the matter of saving the baby from that kind of electric melodrama which comes in cans, melodrama has always won, or secretly practiced, giving the baby solid food, and that that solid food is the scientific mother who feeds the old-time infant-feeding specialist. Once in a while perhaps grandma has really done harm by selecting some knock-knock for the experiment, but in modern pathology is right even the mistake has caused no more than a temporary upset.

When I was seven months old they began feeding me a teaspoonful or two of vegetable soup every day. First I had asparagus, peas, or potatoes, cooked and strained through a sieve. Later they fed me carrots, beets, cauliflower, spinach, and grassed corn—when I was 16 months old and had about six front teeth.

By the time I was a year old my first molars were on the job, and then they started to have my vegetables just mashed up, for I could chew for myself by that time. Of course I had been taking grivies and soups and broths since my birth, but now I had and mother agreed that a little scraped beef or tender meat of any kind was the right taper for me.

Here is a sample menu I enjoy at the age of two years:

Breakfast: Apple sauce, or orange pulp, or any stewed fruit.

Before wheat cooked three hours, with plenty of cream or milk and all the brown sugar on it I wanted. Or oatmeal same way, cooked one or two hours. Or yellow cornmeal.

A soft boiled or poached egg and a strip of toast if I cared for it. A cup of milk.

Dinner: Any meat soup, or a little tender meat or scraped meat (not chopped). Any vegetable well cooked. Or fresh fish, broiled.

Any stewed fruit.

Custard, or gelatin pudding or tapioca, or rice pudding without raisins. Or some sponge cake, or lady fingers.

Supper: A pair of unsophisticated eggs cozily clinging to a piece of toast, or soft-boiled and served with bread. Or some cottage cheese or cream. Or some soup with bread or crackers. Some very ripe banana sliced and served with milk or cream and sugar. A cup of milk, and a cookie.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Walden.
I am disappointed at your failure to recognize and recommend the great discovery of Dr. Cauter and Dr. A. K. Kane—forever walking. It leaves you open to the charge of ignoring it. I believe it is the original source of your health, which is in total contradiction of the opinion I have had of you for years. I wrote you regarding this two months ago. (C. A. K.)

ANSWER—It is a nice exercise for most persons who sit too much, but cannot recommend it for individuals who use by persons over thirty-five years of age. It is true one can exercise much energy in just footed or ice walking about the house or office or street in five minutes, than one can in the ordinary way of walking a mile, which takes perhaps twenty or more minutes. But the mile walk is infinitely better general exercise for Protein and Nephritis.

Kindly inform me what should be the maximum daily quantity of protein in the diet of a man aged fifty-six who has low grade chronic nephritis. Also whether his protein is best restricted to vegetable sources or animal or both. (E. B.)

ANSWER—Aside from theoretical and unproved ideas there is no basis for restricting the protein in the diet. The amount of protein has no relation with the presence of albumin in the urine or with Bright's disease, if that is your thought. The patient's own physician is in position to know about what the diet should be. I think it is well to include both animal and vegetable food in the diet of one with Race Identification.

Can you inform me whether there is any known case of blood mixture whereby a physician or pathologist can determine whether there is a mixture of negro blood in a given individual? Has any test been discovered whereby an expert can determine whether a given specimen of blood is of negro or from white or negro or Mongolian race? It seems to me that such tests, if known, should be of extreme importance in many ways. (H. F. Mos)

ANSWER—No such tests are known. Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Only letters of medical interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail. If you wish to be answered, a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address: Dr. Wm. Brady, Gazette.

Q. Why do thermometers vary? H. W. P.

A. Thermometers vary in their indications mainly on account of exposure, assuming that the instruments themselves register similar under like conditions. ## FIRST CATCH

THE RABBIT!

So begins an old recipe for rabbit stew.

It was written before rabbit-raising became the vogue and it is almost any back yard where no other livestock, no cows or chickens or geese, are raised, that you can find a rabbit as well as meat. They produce fur as well as meat. They may be raised for the home table or for profit.

Properly cooked, they are "all that the most fastidious taste can wish," says the Government. Rabbits are easy to raise, and the whole story of the rabbit's care, from the day he is born to the day he is ready to eat, is told in the time of year to start raising rabbits.

To get your copy of the book, "The Rabbit," send your coupon. Print name and address or be sure to write plainly. Enclose two cents in stamps for return postage.

Frederick J. Haskin, Director, The Janesville Daily Gazette, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of The Rabbit Book.

St. Louis—Freight traffic on the Mississippi river at St. Louis is increasing at a rate that presages a return to conditions prevailing before the Civil war when the city did practically all of its shipping by the water route, according to the annual report of the Merchant's Exchange here. The report shows that 314,665 tons of freight were handled on the river here in 1920, 177,325 tons being received, and 166,140, shipped in 1917, the receipts amounted to $3,074,676, and the shipments, $2,310,476, total of 130,380. In 1912, when river traffic was at its height, the harbor master's report shows the total freight tonnage for St. Louis was $14,551, handled by 5,110 vessels.
